Observations... By the Editor

The location of the bridge over the Bay of St. Louis and the highway approach thereto, is still the topic of much conversation. . . . Commissioner John D. Smith has written a number of people who sent him wires protesting the change in the location, that he would meet with the group in Bay St. Louis before any definite step is taken. . . . The Chamber of Commerce held a meeting last week to organize the group in order that the cause may be properly presented. . . . it is to be hoped that the commissioner will realize the injury which will be caused by the proposed change and the additional cost of construction if such a move is made. . . . the Women's League of Voters is to be congratulated upon their action in not becoming entangled in partisan politics. . . . the question brought before them some few days ago relative to the trustee clause in the toll bridge bill was covered with personal and partisan feelings. . . . women carry a lot of influence in political matters and the Women's League of Voters can be an influence for good if it will only refrain from taking part in matters filled with personalities and partisanship. . . . Mr. Mayor and Commissioners. . . the street at the postoffice and the Baptist church is still in a horrible condition. . . just a bit of engineering and some grading will put it in first class shape, and will allow patrons of the post-office and members of the church to get out of their cars without stepping in a mud puddle. . . you really should do something about it. . . to tell you the truth it is a shame to have so important a thoroughfare in the shape it is in. . . our memory is said to be very short. . . undoubtedly this is a failing of mankind. . . our good sheriff made some promises before his election. . . undoubtedly many of these have slipped his memory. . . after all he is human. . . but for the life of us we cannot see why he takes such a determined stand not to rid the county of the slot machines. . . forcing individuals. . . many of whom were his friends and who voted for him, feeling they would have some one in the office who would act. . . to the only recourse they have, the chancery court to seek out injunctions. . . you know the slot machine is going out of the county, Fip, if it takes untempered petitions for injunctions. . . there will be no let up, in fact the machinery is in motion now to secure injunctions in the 30 cases pending in the chancery court. . . why not realize that the slot machine racket is a lost cause, and take it upon yourself to clear the whole matter up, since the Supreme Court has ruled in the matter. . . there will be many a tip of the hat to you. . . on Sunday we celebrate the feast of Easter. . . the feast of the Risen King. . . who gave His Life for our Salvation. . . and think too, how little we do in return. . . on this great Feast day go to your church and pay homage to your God. . . thank Him for the many favors he has conferred upon us and pray that this year will bring peace to a troubled world.

Change Dates Of Meets To Apr. 13

The date for the Hancock County Field Meet for the Public elementary and high schools has been changed. The meets, originally scheduled for April 15, will be held at St. Stanislaus college stadium Thursday, April 13. The change was brought about because the rural schools could not have a full representation on that date, as a number of the boys have agricultural work to do at that time.

TIME IS THE SAME
The time for the elementary schools will be from 9:00 a. m. to 12 noon; and the high school events will be from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICIALS
Officials for the meets are Brother Alexis and E. E. Breland, referees; Robert Camors, starter; Rev. Father Francis X. Toner, head finish judge; A. B. Dubuisson, head scorer; Brothers Gerard, Athanasius and four other brothers will be the finish judges; John Scaffidi, Pete Burge, Dick Thames and Mike Powers, field judges; Roger Heitzmann, Jr., B. Geary, D. J. Luc, Sonny Reeder, Jerry Kiefer, Don Mathis, Fred Cabel, Gregory and Bruce Favre, assistant field judges; Vincent Morreale and Forster Comma-gere, field marshals.

The trophies and the gold, silver and bronze medals for each event in each class have been received. The Hancock Bank and Merchants Bank gave the trophies for the schools scoring the most points in both divisions. The other trophies are being donated by St. Stanislaus college, American Legion, Robert Camors and E. E. Breland.

JOSEPH DONNELLY, 78, FOUND DEAD WEDNESDAY

Joseph Donnelly 78, was found dead in his home, 210 St. George street Wednesday, April 5 at 12:45 p. m. by Chief of Police Alcine Saucier and George Heitzmann. Mr. Heitzmann became worried when he did not see Mr. Donnelly during the day; when he came home from work at noon he went to the home of the deceased. Finding the door locked he summoned Chief Saucier, and together they entered the house after knocking the door in. They found Mr. Donnelly in bed; he had been dead for some time. An inquest was held; Judge Ruth-erford acted as coroner. Jurors were, Emile Manieri, F. E. Witter, Walter Carver Emile Adams, Jr. and Alvin Ruhr. They determined that he had died from natural causes during the night or in the early morning hours. Funeral services were held in New Orleans with interment in St. Patrick's Cemetery No. 1. His only known survivors are a number of cousins in New Orleans and in the Northeastern states.

In an effort to combine the interest of the people of Bay St. Louis in having the new toll bridge to be built across the Bay of St. Louis in the location of the present structure, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce sponsored a meeting for the leaders of all civic organizations, Tuesday night.

MAY VOICE OPINION
Several letters to the State Highway Commission from local residents requesting consideration of the location of the new bridge and the answers to these from John Smith, Highway Commissioner were read. In these replies, he stated that he was reasonably sure the people of this City would be given the opportunity to voice their opinions in a mass meeting held with the Highway Commission.

H. H. Shattuck, president of the Chamber of Commerce, quoted R. F. Meadows state senator from Harrison and Stone counties, as being of the opinion that it is absolutely possible that the new bridge will be built in the same location of the old one.

PRESENTS PETITIONS
Petitions from beach property owners and residents and business operators on the Highway to keep the present location for any bridge which may be built, were presented by Horace L. Kergosien, real estate dealer, who has been active in the campaign.

T. T. Robin past president of the Chamber of Commerce, gave high points of steps already taken; he illustrated the disadvantages to property owners and business houses if the location of the bridge was changed. "Valuable beach road property will be dead in regard to the tax roll; businesses will be closed; and tourists will be routed away from the hotel, restaurants and business places," Mr. Robin said.

"GET TOGETHER"
D. M. Russell, Jr., local attorney, quoted Reece Bickerstaff, state representative from Harrison county and chairman of the Legislature highway committee, as having said "the people of Bay St. Louis should get together and definitely state where they want the bridge in order to have their views heard."

Previously meeting with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, T. T. Robin and H. L. Kergosien reported that the Board had gone on record to endorse a resolution to keep the highway bridge in its present location.

On Wednesday following this meeting, the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club voted to endorse a similar resolution as to the bridge location.

PRESENT AT MEETING
Organizations represented at the meeting were the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, Mrs. J. R. Rollins; Bay Rotary Club, A. H. Gregory; Lions' Club Earl Ramond; League of Women Voters, Mrs. E. C. Samuel; American Legion, Fred Payard; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Nolan Kingston; Knights of Columbus, Peter Benvenutti; Chamber of Commerce, Shattuck, Robin and Kergosien; Red Cross Robert L. Hamilton; City of Bay St. Louis, C. J. Glover and Sylvan J. Ladner, Commissioners.

Mississippi Soil Fertility Ranks Seventh In U. S. Says Livingston At Rotary Meeting Here April 5

"The fertility of Mississippi soil ranks seventh in the United States," R. B. Livingston, assistant educational director of the Mississippi Forest Service, said here Wednesday in a talk to the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club at Hotel Reed. "If our land is fully utilized the income from it would bring Mississippi in the top rank."

GIVES COUNTY FIGURES
The following information given by Mr. Livingston, though known by some was a revelation to others: During the last nine years Hancock County forested 143,017,000 board feet of lumber; in 1949, 16,139,000 board feet of lumber was shipped from the county; in 1949 Hancock County shipped 37,877 units of pulp wood which averaged $11.50 per unit to the county; in the past nine and one half years this county sold 216,517 units of wood.

VIRGIN TIMBER
Mr. Livingston, a Scott County man, recalled the time when virgin timber was destroyed by skidders through the forests, and "We were not very far behind with our fires destroying acres of virgin timber," he said. He also told of the time when his mother gathered the family to-

A reciprocal agreement has been made between the City officials and the Waveland Volunteer Fire Department, Edward P. Phillips, president of the group, said, which provides that the fire departments will be on hand to help the others whenever assistance is needed. ## THY WILL BE DONE

"Taken from among men and ordained for men in the things that appertain to God, that he may offer up Gifts and Sacrifices for sins."—Hebrew Ch-5 V-6.

The desire to become a priest did not die in the heart of a Bay St. Louis youth, when at the age of 15 years there were some obstacles which prevented his entering the seminary. The command of the Lord, "Come Follow Me," smoldered in his breast for six years. He reached manhood on July 1, 1919, and in September of that year, with his mother's blessing; the aid of his pastor, Right Reverend Monsignor Andrew J. Gmelch; and the permission of his bishop, he entered the minor seminary of St. Benedict at Covington, La. He further pursued his studies at Kenrick Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., The North American College in Rome, The Sulpician Seminary and Catholic University, Washington, D. C. His goal was not to be denied him; and on May 29, 1926, Leo Fabian Fahey was ordained to the Holy Priesthood.

He began his priestly duties in his home Parish of Bay St. Louis, among his own people. Not an easy task; however, he surmounted all obstacles and his reputation as a priest and administrator spread throughout the Diocese of Natchez. During his 15 year stay in Bay St. Louis, many requests came to Bishop Gerow, from laymen who had come to know him and to love him, asking that he be assigned to their parish.

His work in this parish in the missions of St. Henry at Edwardsville, and at Holy Cross at Bayou LaCroix, was outstanding and a work of love. Throughout the period of his assistantship in this parish he attended these two missions, and through his ministry and zeal many people returned to their faith.

He became pastor of Sacred Heart Church at Hattiesburg, Miss., in June 1941, and it was not long before his name became a byword among the people of this thriving Mississippi City. The demands for his appearance before clubs and public functions as a public speaker attested the high regard in which he was held by people of all denominations. He knew how to put across a serious thought in a lively and witty discourse which welled from the wit and humor of his Irish heritage.

His leadership and ability was also recognized by his church. In March 1948 he was named Titular Bishop of Ipsus, and Co-adjutor Bishop of the Diocese of Baker City, Oregon. A native Mississippian, a man from the Deep South, chosen as the head of a diocese in the Great Northwest. And there, too, his ability was further recognized. Within his first year as Bishop he was invited to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the University of Portland, Oregon, and was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy by this institution last June.

He was born a leader. As a boy, and one of his companions, well can we remember his youthful leadership, and how we, together with many others, respected and admired his ability. His influence for good never wavered.

The news of his death cast a cloud of sadness in our midst; yet, we should look upon death as he did. According to our religious teachings, death is a reward. True, it is sad to part with our loved ones; but for the deceased, if he dies in the state of Grace, a life of eternal happiness is only beginning. May his loved ones and many friends be consoled in this thought; and remember, it was God's will; and he prayed constantly, that God's will be done. Being the will of God, he would not have wanted it otherwise.

He was truly a noble priest, and an outstanding Mississippian, obedient and ever ready to further the work of his Father, regardless of personal inconvenience or sacrifice. His was a heart of gold filled with humility and charity. His name will be inscribed in the annals of the Diocese of Natchez as one of its great priests and Mississippi will some day record him as one of her great sons.

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

As to the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice." II Timothy—Ch-4 V-7-8.

GREATER LOVE NO MAN HATH

Nineteen hundred years ago there dwelt in Judea a Man in Whom was united the Divine with the human. He went about doing good to all men, but even His own did not receive Him. Yet, imbued with divine love, he gave His life in order that we might all be saved and enjoy eternal happiness in the after life. "Greater love than this no man hath, that he giveth his life for a friend." This is the event which is commemorated today, Friday, April 7, known as Good Friday, because of the great benefits accrued to mankind by the Passion and death of the Savior.

Mankind in general has forgotten the lesson of Calvary. Today we see the world convulsed because of the lessons of hate which have been taught such great masses of youth and because of the insatiable ambitions of men drunk with power and wanting still more. Millions of lives have been snuffed out in the flower of their youth because of this hate and these ambitions, and the end is not yet.

Man must return to the practice of his duty to God and to his fellowmen, and through love and sacrifice approach the foot of the Cross. No time is better than today when all must exert themselves to resist the desires for riches and power, opportunities for attaining which are numerous because of the confusion of the times. We must all be willing to give up some of our comfort and some of our possessions and some of our leisure for our own safety and the good of all. The greater our sacrifices are the better will be the results.

The lesson of Calvary is brought home to us most vividly by the sacrifices of our own on the battlefield. Our sons, our brothers, our husbands and our sweethearts offered their lives AND GAVE THEM that we may all be free. Let us emulate their sacrifices, and in the light of the Cross raised high on Calvary, determine to exert ourselves for the common cause, setting aside all personal gains and selfish desires, so that we may attain peace with victory and justice, and liberty for us all.—Contributed.

Washington MERRY GO ROUND

TRUMAN AND DESTINY

FOR SOME TIME there has been a running, private debate between the White House and the state department over the all-important question of whether the United States should make a new, dramatic peace overture to Russia. This dates back even to the days when Gen. George Marshall was secretary of state. Recently, however, with the advent of the hydrogen bomb and Winston Churchill's demand for a meeting with Stalin, the debate has become more acute. President Truman has long felt and expressed himself in private that if he could sit down with Stalin, they could thresh out a lot of the world's problems. Yet he can't help being irked at Stalin for being aloof, and for ignoring repeated hints that he, Truman, would be glad to talk to him if he came to the United States.

Overriding this, however, is Mr. Truman's mystic sense of his own destiny as a peacemaker. To old friends and members of his staff he speaks of this again and again. During the visits of White House callers he will sometimes walk to the world globe at one side of his desk and say:

"The nearest thing to my heart is to do something to keep the world at peace. We must find a way, or civilization will be destroyed and the world will turn back to the year 900."

Marshall Said "No"

This sentiment was behind Truman's move for a conference with Stalin two years ago. The President had remarked to a friend, "If I could just get to talk to Joe Stalin, I think we could stop a lot of this trouble. Stalin is a reasonable man."

Later he worked out with his intimate adviser, David Noyes, and Chief Justice Fred Vinson the idea of sending the chief justice to Moscow for a talk with Stalin. When this got back to the state department, it was immediately transmitted by Acting Secretary Robert Lovett to General Marshall, then attending the U.N. assembly meeting in Paris. Alarmed, Marshall flew home for a quick two-day conference, during which Truman agreed not to make any peace move until it was cleared with our western allies or until Russia gave some tangible sign that it wanted peace.

Jerky Mr. Truman

In the last few weeks, the presidential restlessness for a peace conference has been evident again. A shrewd diviner of public opinion, Mr. Truman understands the American public's desire for one more talk with Russia before going full tilt into a hydrogen arms race. Yet many of his advisers were disappointed when he rushed out an abrupt press release telling the world that the United States would make the hydrogen bomb. They felt that he missed a great opportunity for a world-wide radio broadcast reviewing this country's many, many moves for peace, a broadcast that would put the onus for the arms race where it belongs—directly on the Russian doorstep.

The state department was also upset when Mr. Truman hurriedly granted an interview with New York Times correspondent, Arthur Krock, after Krock shrewdly cornered him at a dinner party given by Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut. The President, in festive mood, definitely promised Krock the interview, and kept his word immediately thereafter, despite a previous promise to Secretary Acheson that he would make no public statements on foreign policy without state department clearance.

While the state department isn't going to admit this publicly, what it objects to in regard to current White House peace thinking, are two things:

1. The jerky unexpectedness of Mr. Truman's ideas. There is no continuity. The President can be bawling out Stalin one day, as he did to the amazement of Winston Churchill and Jimmie Byrnes at the Potsdam conference. And later he can be telling friends that Joe Stalin is a man who would be reasonable if you could only sit down with him at the same table.

2. The Russians, in contrast, have a fixed, firm continuous policy—namely, to break the democratic systems of the free world.

Trouble Inside Russia

These are the state department's ideas; and most diplomats and diplomatic observers believe these ideas are correct.

The inescapable fact is that the 14 men in the pollburo, who really make Soviet policy, are not going to change, no matter what Truman or anyone else in the U.S.A. says or does. As previously pointed out in these columns, all is not well either inside the satellite countries or inside Russia itself.

HOME TOWN REPORTER

Hoover Report

EVERYONE who knows anything about the recommendations of the President's committee for the reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government thinks they are a good thing for the country and will save the taxpayers a lot of money if put into effect and the taxpayers are for that.

The trouble is, 68 per cent of the taxpayers or the people know nothing about this report or its recommendations and congress seldom, if ever, takes any action on any subject about which more than two-thirds of the people are ignorant. The Gallup poll says this is true, that of the 31 per cent who do know something about the report, 25 per cent favor the main suggestions, 2 per cent were unopposed and four per cent had no opinion.

But what's wrong when thousands of dollars have been spent and millions of words used in newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, etc., and on the radio and television to tell the people about this report better known as the Hoover report?

Several months ago it was reported in this column that some organizations were seeking to play politics, and make the Hoover report an issue in this congressional campaign. They still are. Although as a matter of fact the people who comprise the Hoover committee itself have learned over backward in attempting to avoid politics and approach the entire program objectively.

Axes to Grind

But what has happened in this: Several large organizations supporting the program have certain axes to grind. Newspaper releases almost invariably read like an indictment of the Truman administration with such phrases as "sinful waste and extravagance of the vast army of bureaucrats" or "despite recent improvements in many agencies of government, the 1951 budget still covers up much of the waste, duplication, payroll padding and inefficiencies exposed by the Hoover commission."

Now "payroll padding" is a felony. Congressman J. Parnell Thomas recently went to prison for payroll padding in his office. But the publicists for the Hoover report do not spare the adjectives, nor the innuendoes, nor outright libel such as was pointed out above.

The United States chamber of commerce, through its president, engages in a dog fight with the powerful American Legion over recommendations on veterans expenditures. . . other organizations castigate the department of agriculture when the big farm organizations like the department.

Mr. Hoover, the only living former president, is featured throughout the publicity when most American remember his unfortunate administration. He is even featured before congressional committees as a governmental expert, although many Americans will never admit to his experience in governmental affairs.

Despite what many of these organizations may believe, the average American does not take kindly to attempts to make his government leaders look stupid, dishonest, nor his government the unholy mess the publicists have attempted to picture as a result of the Hoover report. And this is not to say that there are many instances of duplication, of waste, and even of inefficiency in some branches of the government.

But this is to say that if brickbats are to be thrown in connection with the Hoover report or any other report, then they should be aimed at the source of all waste, extravagance, employment and government money, namely the congress.

The executive branch of the government cannot spend what congress does not appropriate, nor can it initiate spending activities which congress does not authorize, nor can it hire personnel, unless congress gives its approval and furnishes the money.

Congress appropriates the money for the executive branch of the government to spend. Congress creates all these boards and commissions and agencies, says how much money they shall have, prescribes their duties and services and how many people they shall employ, governed strictly by the appropriation given.

Need People's Support

What the Hoover people should attempt to do to get the American people interested in this important problem is (1) to get Mr. Hoover out of the limelight; (2) immediately disclaim and stamp out the patent attempts to play politics by certain organizations; (3) try and get the big groups and organizations together before coming into newspaper battle on various phases of the program; (4) make the publicity entirely objective.

Physical Sight Is Gone; Mrs. Lillian Carver Sees With Mind

"I'm only as blind as I make myself."

"When Dr. W. R. Bufington told me I would be blind for the rest of my life," Mrs. Lillian Carver said, "he also told me that although I would not be able to see physically, everything would be visible to me mentally."

Mrs. Carver, who became totally blind twenty years ago, has not let this lack of sight handicap her. She has been gifted with the will to see with her mind.

HAD DETACHED RETINA

Miss Lil, as she is known by many suffered with her eyes when she was just a child. She had a detached retina in the left eye which left her with little vision. Today she has about two percent vision in this eye. She can tell when the sun is shining, when the moon is shining, if the lights are on or off, and she knows when daylight arrives. "I can't tell or recognize the various lights if I look at them directly, but if I look at an angle, it is all clear to me."

When she was just fourteen years old, Miss Lil, who was then Lillian Damborino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Damborino was struck in the head with a baseball. No immediate injury was recognized, not too many years after this accident, a cataract began to grow in her right eye, which doctors thought was caused by the hard blow of the ball.

HAD ONE OF "BEST DOCTORS"

For ten years Mrs. Carver could see, but only through a fog. After her sight began to fail she went to New Orleans to live, where she was under constant care of eye specialists. Dr. Collier suggested that she go to Dr. Bufington, who Mrs. Carver says is one of the best doctors, she has ever met.

For ten years Dr. Bufington watched this cataract develop and cause the loss of sight; then he decided that it was time to operate on the right eye. After two operations which the doctor thought were successful, an infection set in seven days after the final surgery.

Before the operations the good doctor began preparing Mrs. Carver for what he believed was inevitable—total blindness. "He helped me prepare myself for a life of darkness. He sent me to the State School for the blind in Baton Rouge before the operation so that I could become educated in the ways of the blind—learn to read and write braille and to care for myself—in the event the operation would not be successful." "The unusual thing about it," Mrs. Carver said, "is that Dr. Bufington has never to this day come right out and told me I would be totally blind. He helped me over the rough spots in my life at that

MINDED BLISTERS

When Mrs. Carver was losing her sight before the operation, she had to come back to Bay St. Louis and care for her sick mother. "I learned how to do the things that I had learned when I could see, only this time I had to learn to do them without seeing. The only thing I minded was the blisters that I got from sweeping and mopping so much." Today Mrs. Carver keeps her own home and does all of her laundry and work.

When asked how she can dress so neatly and avoid wearing clothes that clash she said she could feel

LIKES JOURNALISM

Mrs. Carver had planned to go to college, she has a few hours in college work—but something came up and she had to discontinue her plans. She wanted to major in journalism. Her desire to be a writer is still as strong as ever; Miss Lil revealed the fact that she has written a novel pertaining to facts and fiction. The novel was started in 1917 and is five hundred pages; the reason why it hasn't been sent to some publisher is that it is not typed in manuscript form. "Someday when I

Mr. Black came here, looked over the locality, and talked to the Board of Supervisors. He was satisfied with the proposition. The State financed her first stock, put the stand in, and then turned it over to Miss Lil. From that day she has been on her own.

To watch her serve her customers, one would think she could actually see the candy bars, cold drinks or cookies that she sells. She can tell the type candy bar she is arranging by the feel of the box or of the bar, and she knows the cigarette packages by their place in the slots.

Over a period of twenty years, for Mrs. Carver lost her total sight around 1930, she has learned to do things for herself better than some who have sight in both eyes.

GETS SEEING-EYE DOG

On April 10 Mrs. Carver will spend her first day in Morrilton, N. J. at the Seeing-eye dog school. She will leave Bay St. Louis by plane—"my first trip by air"—for the school where she will obtain a seeing-eye dog.

About three years ago, her little cousin, Gayle Colson, was listening to her teacher Mrs. Stockstill read about dogs that help blind people see. After class was over, she went up to the teacher's desk and asked "do you think Lil could get a dog like that?" Mrs. Stockstill told her that she thought she could. Nothing was done about it, and three years later Gayle visited the home of Mrs. Wilson, Wittleberger, who raises boxers for this school. She told Mrs. Wittleberger about Miss Lil and how she went to the store with her everyday. Mrs. Wittleberger told her to ask her cousin if she wanted a dog like that. Gayle did, but Mrs. Carver, although she wanted the dog, did nothing about it.

When she came to work the next day, she told one of the men in the sheriff's office about Mrs. Wittleberger; he told her to call the lady. Somewhere she never got around to it. Every day he would ask if she had called—the answer was always "no." One day he told her she had to call; well, after someone got the number and gave Miss Lil the phone she didn't know what to say. Regardless of what she said, she will soon be on her way to get the dog.

TRAINED WITH DOG

All applicants have to stay at the school for four weeks to train with the dog; they have to walk six miles a day. The dogs undergo three months of strenuous training before they are trained with their masters. These dogs cannot be given as a gift; the owner has to pay for it.

Mrs. Carver is a devout Catholic; she attended Mass almost every day, but because she has no means of transportation, has discontinued this practice. On Sunday she attends church at St. Joseph's in Cedar Point which is near her home.

Although this kind and gentle person was robbed of her physical sight, she has even greater senses that were developed when this loss occurred. She has a keen sense of touch; a gentle personality; kindness; and an outlook on life that is beyond comparison. All that know her love her for hers is a winning smile.

MRS. L. CARVER

her clothes and tell just what dress she was going to wear. "I cannot tell the color by the feel, but when I get a new dress, I memorize the feeling of the material and the make of it so that I can always tell just what it's like. I'll always remember the first time I ever dressed wrong. One morning I was getting ready to go out, and I asked one of my friends if my stockings had any runs in them. Well, they didn't have runs, but they didn't match either. I had out on a grey and a tan stocking. From that day on I have been very careful with my hosiery and other clothes, making sure they match."

Her journalistic abilities were commended when she received a certificate of recognition from the Dr. Christian program for a story she had sent him. He encouraged her to write more.

During the war years Miss Lil was employed in Jackson doing war work in the rehabilitation division for the Blind. She operated an electric machine, and did some typing and other general work.

DIDN'T KNOW WAR WAS OVER

"The day Japan surrendered I didn't even know it. My roommate, who was a reporter for a Jackson paper, was out that night and didn't tell me until the following morning." With the cessation of hostilities work became scarce in the northern part of Mississippi and Mrs. Carver began to get a little homesick for Bay St. Louis and her relatives here. She visited Mrs. McBride, who is head of the Division of the Blind, and Mr. Black, who is in charge of the stand service and asked if she could not secure a stand in Bay St. Louis at the Courthouse.

Soil Conservation

By: J. L. BISHOP
Soil Conservation Service

H. C. Voorhies, owner of a farm in the Catahoula Community, had a complete Soil and Water Conservation plan made on his farm during the spring of 1948. Since that time he has planted 10 acres of re-seeding crimson clover and six acres of Sericea lespedeza between rows in his tung orchard, constructed a fish pond, planted 5,000 pine seedlings on idle land and constructed 1400 feet of drainage ditch to drain land for additional pasture. Soil Conservation technicians assisted Voorhies to lay-out the pond and the ditch.

"My tung orchard was established, when I bought the farm. The tung rows run up and down hill, and on the slopes all of the top soil has practically washed away. On six acre of the steep land, between the tung rows, I have established Sericea lespedeza. I like the Sericea because it has completely stopped the erosion, as well as provided summer grazing for tenant's cows. The re-seeding crimson clover is planted on the gentle rolling slopes of the orchard and my tenant's cows have good grazing all the winter and spring. Next fall I plan to plant the remainder of my tung orchard to clovers, then buy a number of good breed of beef cattle to help graze the pasture. I like this two-fold land utilization program, tung orchard and pasture on the same land; my land won't wash and my tung crop will increase, that is the way I want it," Voorhies added.

This method of first planning a complete conservation program for a farm and then applying the practices as time and season permit works well wherever used. It is much like fitting the piece of a jigsaw puzzle together. When all planned practices are completed one by one, each in the right place, the whole farm is fitted for production use for generations without wearing out or washing away.

Seniors Present "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick"

By the Junior-Senior English Class

On Friday night, March 31, at 8 o'clock, the Kiln High School Seniors presented the three-act comedy, "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick" to a large audience in the gymnasium of the Kiln High School.

Before the curtain opened, the seniors sang their class song, the words of which were written by the class members themselves and which was sung to the tune of "Lucky Old Sun."

In the first act Aaron Slick, played by Webb Welborn, was introduced as a "courtin'" Mrs. Rosa Berry, an Oklahoma widow, played by Alberto Bounds. L. J. Bobinger played the part of Mr. Wilbur Merridew, a crooked speculator, who was trying to buy Mrs. Berry's farm, on which he thought he had discovered oil after Aaron had put 11 gallons of oil into a spring on the place. Mr. Merridew and niece, Gladys May, played by Bobbie Jean Lee, a sweet thing, were staying with Mrs. Berry for a vacation on the farm. Emma Belle Lee took the part of Little Sis Riggs, a regular tomboy, who was "hired girl" for Mrs. Berry, and who provided much of the comedy in the play. The mysterious young man, Clarence Green who was really trying to catch up with the crooked speculator was played by Leroy Cuevas.

In the second act, Mr. Merridew purchased the farm, thinking he had obtained an oil well. Many very funny situations developed in the second act with Aaron trying to propose to Mrs. Berry but never quite succeeding because of his bashfulness and so many interruptions, with Sis Riggs hiding under the table to hear Aaron trying to "pop" the question and then hiding in the clothes basket to hear Merridew tell Gladys about the oil. Webb Welborn as Aaron was a "natural" for the part, and evoked much laughter from the audience. L. J. Bobinger made a very convincing speculator and also got many laughs.

The set for the first two acts was the kitchen of Mrs. Berry's farm, and the students went to much trouble to make it realistic—even bringing an iron stove and a wood box filled with wood on the stage.

The setting for the third act was Room 50 in a Chicago hotel. Again the stage was realistic with tables and chairs, a piano for the musical numbers and the room decorated with palms, and flowers on the tables. No lights were on for this act except the footlights and each table was lighted with a candle.

In the night club scene, Jack Moran acted as emcee and soloist. He introduced the featured entertainer, The Girl in Red, played by Jane Haas.

The floor show opened with "Echoes" sung by Jack Moran, accompanying himself on the guitar, and with L. J. Bobinger as the echo.

As guests sitting at the tables, the class sang "Music, Music, Music," after which Jack Moran and Jane Haas sang "Have I Told You Lately That I Loved You."

In the third act Leroy Cuevas sang "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy" as he gave Aaron a shine.

All the cast managed to get to Chicago in the end, where Clarence Green exposed Merridew as a "crook" and carried him off to jail. Aaron and Rosa start back to the farm after Aaron finally proposes and Little Sis Riggs is glad to give up city life to go back home.

The audience was entertained between acts by L. J. Bobinger, Jack Moran, Leroy Cuevas, and Webb Welborn, singing "Country Boy," the theme song of the play.

After the second act Bernice Cuevas sang "Afraid," accompanying herself on the guitar.

Then little Jerry Ladner sang "Lovesick Blues," with "My Buckle's Got a Hole In It" as an encore. He also accompanied himself on the guitar.

Roy Cuevas acted as announcer for the program.

The staff was as follows:

Director—Mrs. George Curet; Properties—Lottie Mae Bobinger; Prompter—Theresa Lacoste; Ushers—Michael Ladner, Ezell Lee and Dale Seal (Junior boys); Ticket-Seller—Miss Doris Cuevas. Giving out programs were two senior girls, Irene Lee and Bernice Cuevas. Huey Moran was a waiter in Room 50.

SENIORS ATTEND "SENIOR DAY" AT P. R. C.

Last Wednesday, March 28, the senior class, accompanied by their sponsor, went to Pearl River Junior College to attend the annual "Senior Day" given to high school seniors from the counties served by the college.

After registering, the seniors were guided around the campus on a tour of inspection of the various departments and class rooms by P. R. C. students, who were former students at Kiln High, Earl Dwain Lee and Tommy Lee.

Students from all the high schools represented assembled in the auditorium where representatives of the various phases of college life at P. R. While a program of music and dancing was rendered, box lunches were served in the gymnasium.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

A Few Hints for Good Pasture

By Howard F. Simmons

APRIL PASTURES

Pastures are generally good in April. But sometimes mistakes are made by buying stock to fit the spring pastures, and then not selling them before pastures give out the summer.

It is not too late to do something about having a good pasture when spring clovers are gone.

Care of clover pastures this month will have a lot to do with whether there is anything left there this summer. It takes three or four cows per acre to graze clover right. To save for summer grazing the grass coming on in the clovers, cows will have to be moved often from one to another.

Grazing clover a week and resting a week is a good practice. Do this with permanent cross fences, or use the electric fence.

HINT ABOUT BLOAT

A hint about bloat is to take the mowing machine and make a round through the clover pasture each Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. Let the cut clover lie in the swath, and cattle eating this wilted clover will not bloat as badly.

Mow a different strip each time. This also helps keep down early seeding and keeps clovers growing.

Livestock should be moved from crimson clover where seed are to be harvested. Grazing later than April 1 to 15 will lower seed production. If a short dry spell comes in late April, seed stalks will be too short to harvest for seed.

GRAZE HEAVILY

Crimson and ryegrass not to be harvested for seed should be grazed heavily during April. Summer temporary grazing can then be planted the day grazing is through.

Sheep, hogs or steers to be sold should stay on good clover all during the spring. Taking these animals off clover to save seed is false economy unless there is a lot more clover pasture than needed.

HARVESTING SEED PAYS

On most livestock farms it will pay to move livestock from wild winter peas and harvest seed. Then follow with a crop of millet, sudan or grain sorghum.

Fescue and clover should be grazed heavily during April, but livestock should be changed from one area to another to give the fescue a chance to come back. Overgrazing will kill out fescue.

Best practice for hop clover is to graze heavily early. At the late seed maturing stage, run the mowing machine, and give a rest to let lespedeza and grass get a start for summer.

PERSIAN CLOVER

Persian clover tends to crowd out everything else. Graze it heavily, and when it gets too tough, plow it up and plant a temporary summer grazing crop such as sudan or millet. Or mow it so other grass can come on.

Growing mostly on heavy bottom soils, Persian clover makes a good early hog grazing pasture, or a good pasture for cattle if grazed heavy.

When sericea, lespedeza and kudzu are interplanted in crimson clover or wild winter peas, livestock should be removed and the crimson and sericea mowed. Let the kudzu come out for summer grazing, and the crimson and wild winter peas sold mature.

Study pastures now and see if they have enough minerals to do their best and keep doing it.

If potash is low, it will begin to show up on the clover leaves. There will be small white speckled spots on the leaf. Later the edges of the leaves will turn brown and curl up.

Clover will die if potash is very low. It takes lime, phosphate and potash or basic slag and potash, to grow good clovers.

Telephone Wages Are Way Ahead of the Cost of Living

Eight General Increases in the Last Ten Years Have Boosted Wage Rates 117% While Living Costs Have Increased About 73%. Any Further Increase in Wages Would Have to be Paid by Telephone Customers

Telephone employees, like everyone else, have faced a steep increase in the cost of living during the last ten years. What about telephone wages—have they kept up?

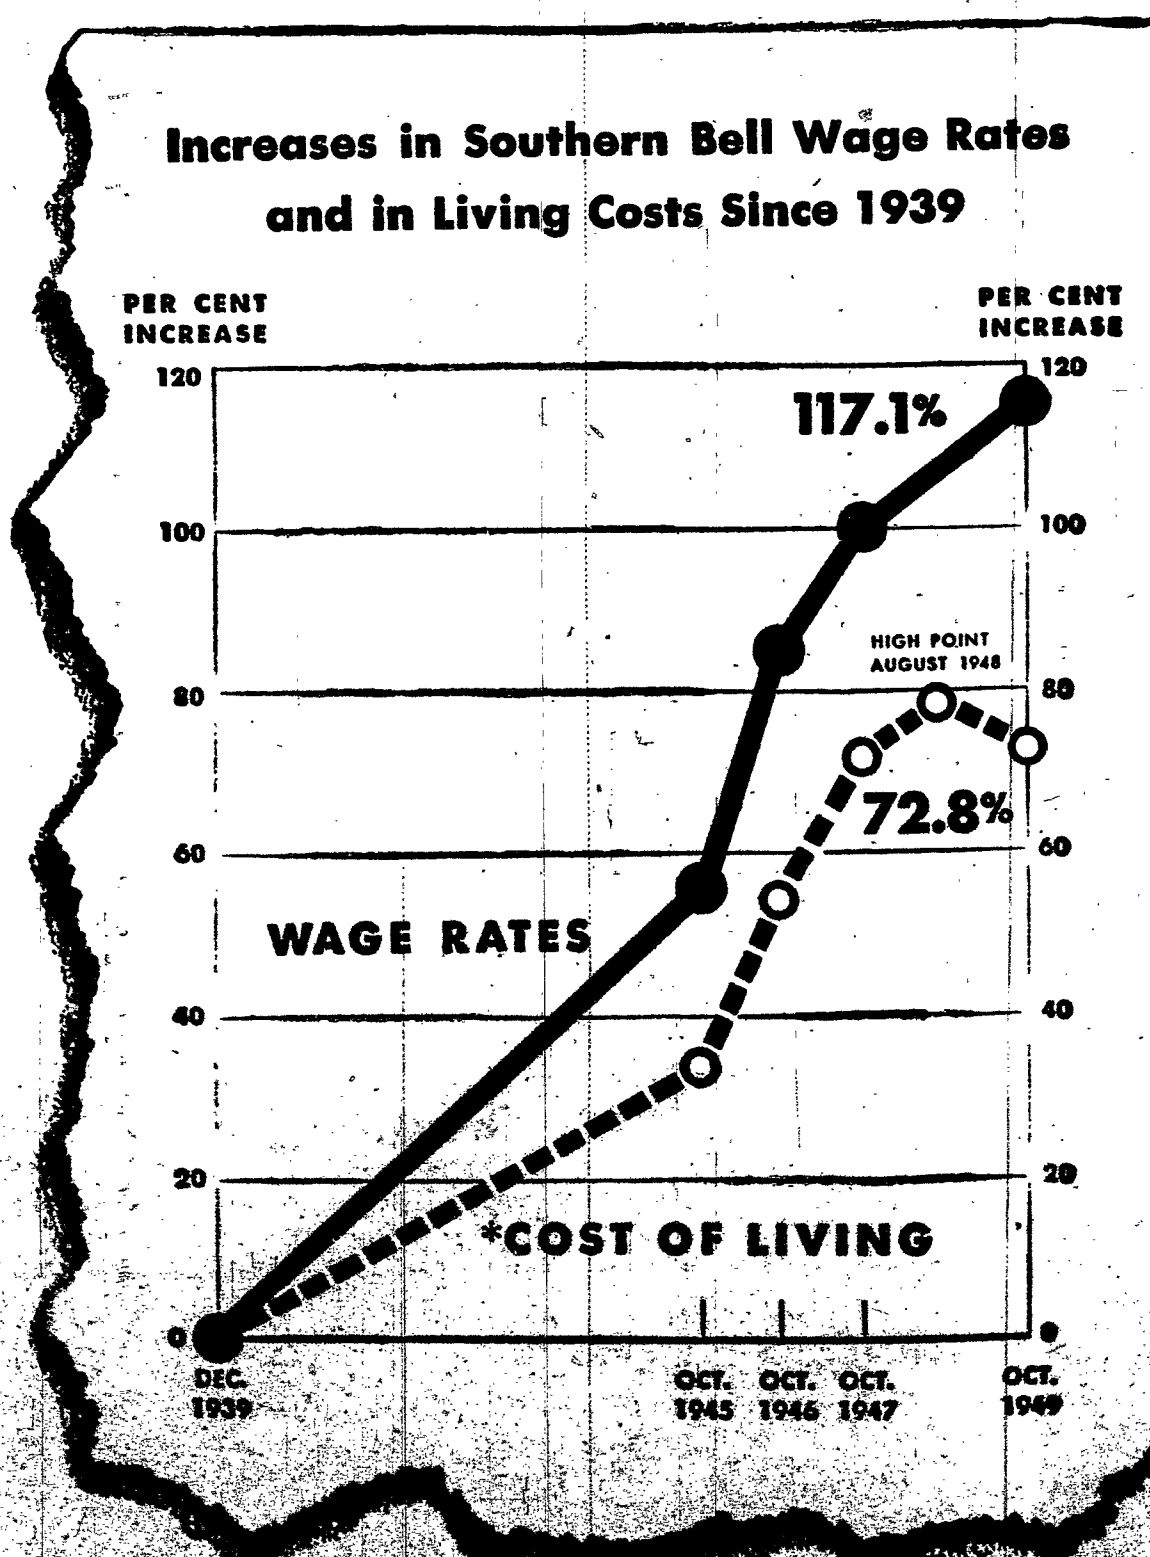

As the chart clearly shows, telephone wages have more than kept pace—leaving a substantial margin in our employees' favor. Telephone wage rates have been increased 117 per cent since 1939 compared with an increase of about 78 per cent in the cost of living for Southern cities.

Southern Bell employees have received eight general wage increases in the last ten years. In addition, they regularly receive automatic "progression" raises according to a schedule which begins the day they start work and continues with frequent increases until they reach top pay for their respective jobs.

During the next twelve months, 8 out of 4 Southern Bell employees will receive at least one such automatic increase. Many will get two and three.

Today, as always, Southern Bell people receive wages which compare favorably with those paid by other concerns in the community for comparable skills and experience. Can you think of any yardstick fairer than that?

Add to good wages the assurance of year-round employment, liberal sickness, accident and death benefits, and a pension plan that is among the best in all industry, and you can readily see that telephone employees are doing all right.

In this capital of the United States, often referred to as the capital of the world, developments are fast, decisions are momentous, and arguments are plentiful. There is never a dull day in Washington. On both sides of the aisle, there is always something to talk about and something to do. Since all matters are relative, it is merely a question every day about which is the most important development of the day, week or month. But there is never a dull day in the political life of this world center.

Right now the hottest political issue is the State Department. It has been generally conceded for many months that, of all the various agencies of the Government into which the Communists had infiltrated, the Department of State had received into its fold the greatest number of Communists. Thus, on reflection, might be expected. For the Communists in this country are relatively small in number, but they are smart. In fact, I can truthfully say that I have never met a Communist in this country or one that I suspected of being a Communist without finding in him a smart man, certainly smarter than the average. This within itself is not strange when we realize that Communism is a fanatical, crusading ideology. It appeals to the reformers, the long-haired college professors, and the "no-gooders." Moreover, in a crusading movement such as this, the Communist leaders endeavor to select the most talented and best educated men they can find to do the pioneering work necessary before the bold attempt is made to take over a particular government.

Again, the State Department would naturally afford the best field for effective work. For it is through this State Department that our treaties and agreements are made with foreign countries. Therefore, it is not surprising that in their effort to secure a foothold in this country, the Communists selected the State Department as their number one objective. As long as three years ago one distinguished Southern Member, Congressman Cox of Georgia, said on the floor of the House, "The State Department is the rottenest nest of rats in the Government."

Of course, this does not mean that everyone in the State Department is a Communist nor does it mean that of the several thousand employees of that Department any appreciable number of them are Communists. Neither does it mean that the present Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, is a Communist. As a matter of fact, I suspect that if the truth were known, there are fewer Communists in the State Department today than there were under Acheson's predecessor, General Marshall. And, certainly, no one would doubt the patriotism of General Marshall. They were there under that eminent Southern Conservative, Jimmy Byrnes, when he was Secretary of State. But the fact does remain that these enemies of our American Way of Life had worked themselves into key positions in the State Department, and I suspect that there are still a considerable number there now.

But, again, there are many men in this Department who are not Communists but are decidedly to the left of center. They are probably more appropriately termed Progressives, Leftists, or even Fellow Travelers. As one who has had many opportunities in the past five years to confer with department heads and sub-heads, including Secretary Acheson himself, I am inclined to the opinion that Senator McCarthy, who has been enjoying the spotlight for the past several weeks in a one-man crusade against the Department, has made the mistake of trying to cover too much territory and has been guilty of loose statements. No man in public or private life should be designated a Communist unless there are facts to prove the charges. Certainly, Secretary Acheson is not a Communist, but I know from personal pleas to him, even when he was Under-Secretary of State, that he has been slow to take a firm position in dealing with Russia. Certainly, he made a great mistake in coming to the defense of Alger Hiss after that State Department employee had been convicted by the courts. On the other hand, unless Senator McCarthy can substantiate his charges against particular employees of that Department, he runs the risk of helping the Communists, Fellow Travelers, and "Pinkos" in that Department at the bar of public opinion. That there is ample room for a house cleaning in the Department of State, in our judgment, is unquestioned.

Legion Commander Refuses To Accept Hoover Report

Proposals by groups in Mississippi supporting a blanket acceptance of the controversial Hoover Commission Report were firmly opposed by American Legion Post Commander Fred E. Fayard, Sr., here today.

CONSIDERS PROPOSAL

Commander Fayard, considering the proposal of a United Medical Administration, a super federal bureau charged with the administration of all government medical services, declared that "... veterans would lose their identity as honorably discharged ex-servicemen and woman and, subsequently, their basic entitlements for the medical service they now receive.

"We do not believe," Continued Commander Fayard, "that the merging of army, navy, Marine, Merchant marine, Indians or reservations government personal and inmates of federal prisons under one hospital system will add up to economy.

DISMISSES CHARGE

Commander Fayard dismissed the charge that empty beds were numerous in hospitals of the Veterans Administration.

He emphasized that the "... old buildings often used for VA hospitals often have wards which are not authorized for use or insufficient funds to place all wards in operation.

"Naturally," he added, "these unused facilities for which there are no funds are taken by the Hoover proponents as ammunition. When a surplus army hospital, for example, has been turned over to the VA, it often follows that only twenty of possibly fifty wards may be placed in use. With no funds available for either operating or tearing down the old wards, a half-truth about empty beds comes to the forefront."

LOW COST HOSPITAL SYSTEM
The statement concluded that the VA, serving some 19,000,000 potential patients had established the most efficient, lowest cost hospital system in history.

"Cost figures," the Commander affirmed, "on public records show the cubic foot cost and per patient operating cost of the VA Hospitals to be lower than any comparable installations.

"To destroy this system means grief to all concerned."

The appointment came from Henry A. Bubb, of Topeka, Kansas, President of the League, which is the 58-year old, nationwide trade organization of the savings association business.

WORK OF COMMITTEE

The Committee on Fidelity Bonds and Insurance concerns itself with those arrangements between savings associations and companies which protect them in financial relations. Adequate coverage of the associations on such practical matters as automobile liability insurance on cars used in the association's business is an example of the phase of savings and loan operations which receives this committee's attention. The reason many diseases and bodily imbalances go on for years without relief or cure is due to the approach used in coping with the condition.

The underlying and basic cause for disease is usually obscure and removed from the symptoms or even the organ affected in the disease.

If you have a health problem which seems to resist every effort made to correct it, it would be wise to consult your Chiropractor, for usually he is able to locate and remove these hidden causes of disease. The result being a return to normal function and health.
